

Media Information

Cambridge Broadband Expands into Europe

Cambridge, UK, June 08 2001 – Cambridge Broadband, a broadband wireless equipment developer, today announced the opening of offices in Germany and France, and the appointment of Rudiger Meisenburg and Zine Seghier as Regional Vice-President of Sales and Director of Business Development respectively.

Based in Berlin, Rudiger is responsible for extending Cambridge Broadband's successful sales operations to Germany, Austria, Switzerland and throughout Central and Eastern Europe. Rudiger has considerable knowledge of the Industry with extensive experience in LAN products and Fixed Wireless Access technology. Before joining Cambridge Broadband he served as Vice President Business Development EMEA for Adaptive Broadband where he focused on the evolving market of Fixed Wireless Access.

Zine Seghier will head the Paris office and is responsible for driving Cambridge Broadband's business development throughout the SEMEA (South Europe, Middle-East and Africa regions). Zine has extensive international experience in the Broadband Access sector, having worked as a freelance consultant to companies such as Interwave, IRIDIUM Europe and Cairnwood International. Prior to his consultancy work, Zine was General Manager, France and Sales Director, EMEA of Microcom, a pioneer in internetworking, remote access and Internet equipment.

Peter Wharton, CEO of Cambridge Broadband, commented: "We are delighted to have two such experienced additions to Cambridge Broadband's team. The opening of our French and German offices represents a significant step in our roll-out strategy and we believe that in Rudiger and Zine we have the ideal candidates to take advantage of the burgeoning market for Broadband Fixed Wireless Technology in Europe."

-ends-

Cambridge Broadband Expands into Europe / 2

About CBL

Cambridge Broadband has an experienced team with a strong record of successful innovation in broadband wireless equipment. Founded in January 2000, the company is focussed on delivering high quality multi-service networks with the best price-performance in bands up to 11 GHz for license holders worldwide. For more details visit www.cambridgebroadband.com

For further information contact:

Helen Gorbutt
Companycare Communications
Tel: 0118 9395900
Fax: 0118 9599595
Email: heleng@companycare.com